Remember that when the stomach nerves fall or weaken, dyspepsia or indigestion must always follow. But, strengthen these same weak inside nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative, and then see how quickly health will again return. Weak Heart and Kidney nerves can also be strengthened with the Restorative, where Heart, pains, palpitation, or Kidney weakness is found. Don't drug the stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That is wrong. Go to the cause of these ailments. Strengthen these weak inside nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative and get well. A simple, single test will surely tell. C. A. Milford.

Possess marvelous curative powers removes all disorders, makes health, strength and flesh. After taking Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea you'll realize the wonderful good it does. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets.

C. A. Milford & Co.

Plenty of Trouble is caused by stagnation of the liver and bowels. To get rid of it and headache and biliousness and the poison that brings jaundice, take Dr. King's New Life Pills, the reliable purifiers that do the work without grinding or griping. 25c. at Speed's drug store.

If you would like to feel some wise Coffee Critic, who "knows fine Coffee on taste and flavor," quietly make for him a batch of Dr. Shoop's "Health Coffee" and serve it piping hot. It deceived Mrs. Shoop, and will I believe deceive any one. And there is not a grain of real Coffee in it. Health Coffee is made from pure roasted grains, malt, nuts, etc. Made in a Minute—No 30 to 40 minutes tedious boiling. 14 pounds 25c. L. T. Miller.

This is Your Chance!

Are you going to buy a new wagon?—a new plow?—a new harrow?—a new planter? If so, here's your chance

Just now we have an exceptionally fine stock of exceptionally fine implements, which we are offering under exceptionally liberal inducements. So attractive are they that you can't afford to buy until you have seen our wares and learned of our prices. Do so to-day.

As to Church Officers.

It is quite a common thing to hear individuals who are not church members, laying at the door of members of the church, and especially church officers, responsibility for much of the rottenness and crookedness that permeates society.

The complaint comes up sometimes like this: "Look at so and so, he is a prominent church man, occupies a front seat at every service and has the mouth in everything that the church does. Yet everybody knows that he is not to be trusted in an ordinary business transaction, his reputation for common honesty is not good, and he does things that would be condemned in men who make no such profession. How do you expect the people to be any better than they are with such men as this for leaders?"

We would not be understood as trying to defend any kind of improper conduct in any church member or any church official, and we agree with the commonly accepted notion that church members and church officials should so conduct themselves as to be fit examples for other people in all matters relating to correct and righteous practices. This is too plain a proposition to admit of controversy; but we submit that it is the duty of everyone to put common sense behind the purpose for which people generally point out the unworthiness of church members or church officers, viz: the justness of themselves.

There is no question of the fact that all church members and church officers should be honest and upright in all their dealings and clean and correct in all their conduct; but in cases where they do not measure up to these conditions we are unable to see where or how their failure should be any justification of their example. While it is true that unworthy church members and unworthy church officers are discreditable to the churches to which they belong, they are still more discreditable to themselves, and there is no good ground to charge responsibility against the churches. As a matter of fact not one of the different Christian denominations as such stands for a thing that is wrong or questionable. As a matter of fact, the tenets of all the Christian denominations are sound and wholesome and the failure of the individual to live up to those tenets must not be held as a reflection upon the tenets, but upon the individual.

And as for the man who complains against the church because individual members thereof are recreant in their duty, we think he should quit complaints against the church, and apply them more directly against the moral turpitude of the individuals complained of. And it will be better even to leave off this until he becomes of the church himself, for if he is dissatisfied with the kind of people of which the church is made up, he certainly cannot hope to work much of a revolution from the outside. Instead of waiting for the church to become better, it would be a better move on his part to join and undertake from the inside such reforms as he thinks are needed.

But with it all do not let it be understood that the people who compose the church are all what they should be. There is plenty of meanness and hypocrisy in the church. There are church members and church officers who do not hesitate to serve the devil in the liver of heaven. It has always been so and will be so always.—Yorkville Enquirer.

Physical Basis of Business Success

The London Daily News lays to its soul the flattery notion that American competition in trade cannot last because American business men so it alleges, strain their working powers too much, both their food too quickly, get played out early in life, and leave the weaklings who will be unable to carry on business with the energy of their fathers. This picture of American conditions has some truth in it, but is nothing like so true to existing conditions as to those of 20 years ago.

The American business ideal is no longer the hurrying man, but the smooth man. He multiplies all over the States. He feeds, if not so slowly as the Briton, much more slowly than the hurrying ideal did. He is temperate in drink while a good deal of a gourmet. He is growing a slow stout. It is mainly to believe that he breeds weaklings. On the contrary, the physique of the American business class notably improves. The sons evolve in the direction of athleticism. They keep up all manner of clubs for wholesome outdoor and indoor exercise, and they are pretty diligent in sport as in business. It is true that they become absorbed in trade, but they do not go to business as young as they formerly did. Increasing numbers of them pass through college first.

It is possible that the physique of young America might deteriorate in spite of all this, by intense application of successive generations of fathers to business, if the women were doing nothing to help. But the change in physique of the American woman is one of the most notable and significant changes of the past 40 years. She is now commonly robust and inclined to embonpoint, decidedly a strong woman, the mother of vigorous children, though she does not bear enough of them. She takes in her girlhood, a great deal of open air exercise, and is, on the whole, a finer physical specimen than the American man. The pallid, delicate, lazy, American woman type of 40 years ago is little in evidence now. Her successor contributes greatly to the improving physique of the business classes.

In all this evolution Uncle Sam's children have learned much from John Bull's whom they imitate extensively. In turn J. B.'s imitate them in some things, not always of the best. If they would carry the imitation to strenuousness in business, they would probably gain in trade, in health, and in happiness. For one of the paradoxes of life is that there is more pleasure in occasional sport than in almost incessant sport. The average American plays that he may work better, the average Englishman is apt to work only that he may play. He often feels ill-used by having to work at all. The Canadian and American more often like work, and like play all the better for working with zest.

Mr. S. L. Bowen, of Wayne, W. Va., writes: "I was suffering from kidney disease, so that at times I could not get out of bed, and when I did I could not stand straight. I took Foley's Kidney Cure.
